

London Fashion Weekend

Thursday 25th – Sunday 28th February
at Somerset House

London Fashion Weekend is the capital's essential fashion and shopping event, taking place from 25th - 28th February within the official Fashion Week venue Somerset House.

Shop from over 100 designers selling a range of samples, one-off designs, current and past season's collections at up to 70% off RRP. Have a sneak preview of the exclusive designer discounts on offer from our designers at Fashion Weekend this season.

Plus, experience the buzz of London Fashion Week in the official British Fashion Council catwalk venue as we round up the key looks for Spring/Summer 2010 and when it's time to take a break from shopping your way around the amazing designer discounts; get beauty tips and haircare advice from Elizabeth Arden and TONI&GUY or simply relax with a champagne cocktail!

Have first pick of what the fantastic London Fashion Weekend designers have to offer at the Opening Night from 5pm - 10pm. Designers restock their stands daily but there are likely to be some extra special finds on the Opening Night. A limited number of tickets will be available and are in high demand so be sure to book early to avoid disappointment.

Ticket purchase is essential for any day you attend so visit www.londonfashionweekend.co.uk to purchase yours and find out more about this must-see event!

Pashminas for those who love them

Candice Wren

With Candice Wren you can be inspired and find unique designs that will cater for any style, taste and occasion. A bespoke pashmina label, Candice Wren concentrates on producing high quality fashion pashminas, designing motifs that are hand printed directly onto the shawls making each and every pashmina individual from anything you'll find elsewhere. Printing her designs onto pashminas made of the finest cashmere and silk Candice Wren has built up a renowned reputation, producing pieces that are each individual and can even be made to your own specifications.

"I absolutely fell in love with the idea of applying print to pashminas after seeing a trend for them whilst on holiday and so after getting back to the UK, I realised there was a real niche in the market for such a fashion piece. From there the company just blossomed and the online boutique now gives people the opportunity to view the latest ranges, as well as gain inspiration to discuss their own ideas with myself!" comments Candice.

With such passion for stylish and original designs, Candice Wren's collection is varied, with hints of fun and bright colours that can be adapted and created to fit in with what you desire. Themes and ideas are welcome and Candice can even match up pashminas with outfits for special occasions such as weddings, ladies days and other events. Candice told us: "I have a great range for the bride, bridesmaids, and even mothers of the bride and groom, accommodating to each and every requirement right down to the very last bead, adding that personal touch which is entirely unique for your day."

Understanding each client's needs and requests is all part of Candice's superb service, yet as well as made to order pieces, with personalised messages and images based on a requested theme she is always seeking out inspiration in the most unlikely places, as well as gaining influence from vintage fabrics and customer demand. Plus with the online boutique, customers can easily browse the latest collections, with Candice constantly producing ideas for new designs.

However, with each pashmina Candice's passion shines through and whatever you're looking for in style or design, the finished product is guaranteed to go beyond your expectations and meet your fashion desires.
